

On Thursday evening, at Temperance Hall, Americans will assemble to take counsel together for the general good. Let all attend who are faithful to the principles which animated their forefathers, and which now animate them to oppose tyranny in every form, and to persevere until the time shall come when "Americans will rule America." Shall there be an investigation before Congress of the bloody deeds of "Bloody

OUR CITY,-It has been said that the President has intimated to the Mayor the necessity of preserving order in Washington, and that if he (the Mayor) cannot protect the citizens from the assaults of the vicious and murderously-inclined horde of renegades who have so long rendered our city a pandemonium, the President will take the matter into his own hands. This is rightthis is as it should be. We are sorry that Mr. Buchanan did not act in this matter earlier, and thus prevent the disgraceful scenes which have been enacted among us, preserved many useful lives, averted much suffering, and saved Washington from becoming, as she has become, a bye word and a reproach all over the land.

This action of the Executive has foundate operated to produce the comparative order and quiet which for the week past have prevailed among us, and we sincerely hope that the presence of members of Congress, and the innumer able host of visitors drawn hither to witness the opening of these august bodies and to transact business with the Government, will have the effect | though full of a noble and just ambition to become to render permanent the improvement visible in the order and quiet of our city during the week especial manner to extend not only protection, the knowledge I have of the character of Yturbut courtesy and kindness, to strangers visiting the seat of Government. The vast number of not a trait of his character; on the contrary, citizens from the States, and visitors from all nothing indicates more plainly his strength and part) of the world, who assemble in Washington firmness of character, than the patience with during the sessions of Congress, would seem to which he has resigned himself to wait for the the general and city governments, in order that his capacity to serve his country in a high and both they and citizens of the District may find honorable position. Weak minds are generally pockets, housebreakers, and murderers.

We trust that Congress will institute inquiry into the proceedings of the city authorities on the United States troops to shoot down peaceable citizens in the exercise of an undoubted right-an as well as of the District, wish to know it.

Thankful, oh, how thankful we are, that Congress will be enabled to get at the truth. The American party of Washington, charged as they have been by the Democratic newspaper press of it will forever remain an exception to the generageous and bloody proceedings, have been cent; and, not only so, but the evidence adduced the most perfect, was the most convenient for at the trial proves that there was no riot at all, the circumstances in which they legislated. They is justly chargeable with the crime of murder.

MRS. HELEN MUZZY .- We understand that this talented young lady, formerly connected with the from thence their sufferings for more than a a professional tour to Richmond, Petersburg, Alexandria, Fredericksburg, and Washington, to glory and stability to a nation, educated under give readings from the poets, and remarks on Free Masonry. Mrs. Muzzy is the possessor of considerable talent, a most excellent reader, and admirable lady, and believing that she is fully competent for the task she undertakes, we comnd her to the citizens of the several places she designs visiting.

THROW PHYSIC TO THE DOGS .- On Saturday morning, at the corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Fourteenth street, a lady, returning to her home from market, with her basket on her arm, was very much injured by a fall, in consequence of being run against by two large dogs, who were at play. They were running at great speed, and so violent was the shock that she was precipitated to the pavement with tremendous force. She was carried into Mr. Drury's confectionery store, who kindly attended to her, sending after several medical men, who, unfortunately, could not be found. We did not ascertain the lady's name, having no opportunity to address Mr. Drury, who was busy in ministering to her necessities, and who, falling to obtain the services of a physician, as soon as possible conveyed her to her home.

PASSAGE THIEVES .- Lock your front doors, for there are thieves prowling around your houses, and watching for opportunities to slip in and appropriate your wearing apparel to their own use. Neglect not this warning, or you may chance to find yourselves minus some of your over garments and other valuables.

A NEW MODE OF ROBBERY .- Citizens, be on your guard. On Friday night last, about nine who has the advantage of having received a good o'clock, as Mr. Hutchinson, a huckster of Centre éducation and possessing an illustrious name, it Market, was going to his home, having been to will no doubt become the promoter of the views his stand in the market to make ready for the of the Liberator, Simon Bolivar, who proposed to following day, he was attacked on Ninth street form a Congress of Deputies from the American near the market by three men, who threw a blan-ket over his head, which was immediately drawn tight around his neck, so as to prevent him from making an alarm, and whilst in this condition robbed him of one hundred dollars.

From Nxw Mxxrco.—The Santa Fe Gazette of the 31st of October contains a few items. It reports the return of Mr. James L. Collins, Superintendent of Indian Affairs, from the Navajo country, whither he had gone to be present at the distribution of the annuity goods. About two thousand five hundred of the tribe were present and appeared much pleased with the goods given them. This is the largest and most powerful tribe of Indians in New Mexico, numbering 3,000 warriors.

The new Governor, Mr. Rencher, had not arrived in the Territory, but was anxiously wished for, as the country had been without a government for some months. A considerable fall of snow took place in Santa Fe on the 17th of October. Provisions there are very high; potatoes selling at $5 per bushel.

The editor of the New York Herald, of the 3d nstant, speaking of the Mexican revolution, states the fact of a party wishing to bring forward as a new leader Don Angelo Yterbide, though the correspondent says his proper name is Agustin Yturbide, eldest son of the Liberator of the same article states death all have heard. The same article states other things entirely inexact. I know not from what source he may have obtained such information, but as I doubt not that his object is to enlighten public opinion and not to mislead it, I hope he will rectify his own.

Don Agustin Yturbide was not educated in this country, as the editor supposes, but was brought up in England, where he obtained, in colleges, the treatment and attentions that were due to his high expectations. The fall of his father left him in early age, without any prospects for his future career, as his family was exiled from the mother country. When Yturbide became of age, he ought, as it was natural, some situation where he could find employment for his active mind, and applied to the Liberator of Colombia, Simon Bolivar, for a situation in the army, which was readily granted; and whilst in South America he enjoyed he esteem and consideration of the Liberator, who conferred on him the title of aid d'camp. Yturbide was then about twenty-three years of age, of a prepossessing appearance, handsome count-nance, athletic body, speaking the English lan-guage as his native tongue, with a decided taste for military life, love for history and literature, and had remarkable powers of wit and sarrasu When the Liberator died in Santa Martha, Yturbide retired to the United States, and was after wards employed by the Mexican Government as Secretary of Legation in London. Since then I believe he has never taken part in public service. and therefore the supposition is entirely unfounded that he has been aid d'camp to several dictators. On the contrary, I am credibly informed, that useful to his country, he has always avoided taking part in her civil wars.

The editor of the Herald says, that Santa It is the bounden duty of the Government to protect the citizens of the Government, and in an not what reason he has to think so, as from bide, I am inclined to believe, that weakness is require a more active vigilance on the part of day in which his countrymen should recognize adequate protection from thieves, robbers, pick- impatient of delay, but the strong and resolute know how to wait.

Although some seem to believe that Mexico is unfit for self-government, I am far from parfirst of June last, and subject to a most rigid scrutiny the acts of the Mayor of the city on that occasion.

If that functionary has the power to order out spirit that distinguishes a nation. Neither the Brazilians nor the Chilians are superior to them as a race, and still we see their governments inalienable privilege-the citizens of the country, rising fast in importance. Every nation that has ever existed, has had its days of gloom and trouble, and not because the United States has had the good fortune to escape, so far, from this universal law, can any one prudently assert that this city, with being the authors of these out ral rule. It must, however, be acknowledged, to the praise and glory of the founders of its inenabled to vindicate themselves of the foul dependence, that it has enjoyed so uninterrupted charge, and to prove to the satisfaction of a dis- a period of peace and prosperity; for, owing to cerning public that they, as a party, and as indi- their wisdom and patriotism, in establishing a vidual members of that party, are entirely inno- form of government, which, though perhaps not and, consequently, that the act of Mayor Magru- were placed in a situation well adapted to lay ernment, and from this circumstance the coun-We appeal to Congress. The governmental scheme of Washington and his companions, that gave the regular and systematic school of the English laws, could not be adapted to the descend ants of Cortez and Pizarro, no matter how enthusiastic for the philanthropic principles of lib-erty and justice. They have adopted all that religion and philosophy could advise to the in-telligence of Christian Republicans; they have proclaimed the most liberal laws, but in the practice their efforts for a liberal form of government have turned constantly into anarchy or tyranny. This sad lesson will undoubtedly teach them better for the future, and the day cannot be far off when they must content them selves with a less popular and more adequate

Peace will at once put a stop to their attempts, though we are far from rejecting the mixture of Anglo-Saxons in our affairs and undertakings. On the contrary, we are inviting them from all parts, offering our lands and political rights to all who may desire to partake of them; but we think it useless to waste life and capital for the acquirement of territory that can be bought for much less than those expeditions cost. - California is a striking proof of this truth.

A VENEZUELAN. WASHINGTON, December 7, 1857. From the Chicago Democrat. "Gen. Hiram Walbridge, of New York city, is

The brig Eliza Burgess, which sailed from Salem on the 21st ult., put into Gloucester the next day for the purpose of landing five boys who had stowed themselves on board. The Relief of Lucknow.

The London News of November 12, says: The London News of November 12, says:

The story of the relief of Lucknow will form one of the brightest pages in the annals of British heroism. Havelock had to fight his way from the frontier of Oude, with only two thousand five hundred men, through a country in which every man was in arms against him, and every town, village, and house had been converted into a fortress. There was but one practicable road along which he could advance, on either side of it there was nothing but a succession of quagmires. The bridges over the intervening rivers—swollen at this season succession of quagmires. The bridges over the intervening rivers—swollen at this season to their utmost magnitude—had been blown up; and on the further banks were entrenched disciplined regiments, far outnumbering his disciplined regiments, far outnumbering his small band of Englishmen, with an ample sup-ply of heavy artillery in position. These means of obstruction—natural and artificial—must have been turned to account with a will; for the relieving party took six days to advance the fifty-three miles of distance from the bank the fifty-three miles of distance from the bank of the Ganges, opposite Cawnpore, to Lucknow. The enduring valor of the beseiged is equally admirable with that displayed by their liberators. Through three weary months they had resolutely repelled assaults from overwhelming odds in impoverished entrenchments, with very inadequate supplies of everything that was necessary for defence and the support of existence. Yet, borne up by their own high hearts, and by their faith in the anxiety of their own countrymen for their relief, no feeble wailing was heard, though the women and children outnumbered the fighting men; wh.le the counter attacks of the garrison repeatedly made the assailants reel backward in dismay, and afforded opportunity to drive into the residency the herds and other stores of provisions collected by the mutineers. Every nerve has been strained to the utmost, both by our beleaguered countrymen and by those who have been strained to the utmost, both by our be-leaguered countrymen and by those who have fought their way through hostile myriads to relieve them. One day—perhaps a few hours—longer, and most probably the unsurpassed passive and active heroism displayed on both sides would have proved unavailing. The mines of the assailing force had been advanced be-yond the lines of defence, and a short time would have seen the extemporized bulwarks of would have seen the extemporized bulwarks of the residency blown into the air, and the infuriated Sepoys, and their yet more brutal abet-tors from the bazaars, pouring over the ruins to overwhelm the defenceless inmates. We read this denouement and draw a long breath of relief at the close, as if we ourselves had just made some hair-breadth escape. But not a moment is left us to pause on this reflect on.
We are immediately hurried on by the tale which tells how English promptitude and resolution forthwith assumed the aggressive, and put the assailants on their own defence. On the 25th of September the residency was en-tered by the succoring force; on the 26th the entrenchments of the beleaguering army were stormed; and during the next three days the foe was driven from one post after another through the narrow and tortuous streets of Lucknow. Further we know not. At the last moment to which our information is brough down the greater part of the city had fallen in-to the possession of our troops, and doubtless the rest would soon follow.

EXTRAVAGANCE. -The extravagance of the times EXTRAYAGANCE.—The extravagance of the times is bideous! The extravagance of some ladies has no parallel but that of Cleopatra, Queen of Egpyt. It is said that she, in one of her love-feasts given in honor to Mark Anthony, to show her reckless extravagance, sportively swallowed a jewel, in our coin worth more than ten thousand dollars. This she did to exhibit to the Roman hero her immense wealth and splendid mode of life.

she did to exhibit to the Roman hero her immense wealth and splendid mode of life.

But this falls but little short of the present extravagance of some of our fashionable ladies. They do not swallow jewels, as the Egyptian Queen did. They prefer them on the outside of the body. "Five thousand dollars," said a fashionable lady to one of the speakers at the late meeting of the American Board of Foreign Missions, "it cost her to give a fashionable party?" and ten thousand dollars for a dress with diamonds and jewels to match, is no uncommon affair, now-a-days, es match, is no uncommon affair, now-a-days, es pecially with those ladies who "have nothing to

The ladies of the present day may, in one sense, be compared to the "Mies of the field." They "toil not, neither do they spin, yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed nike one of these." So

THE NEW GUANO ISLANDS IN THE PACIFIC.-Commander Dayis, of the U. S. ship St. Mary's, writes that the "conclusions and opinions" of Commodore Mervine respecting the Guano or Nantucket Island in the Pacific have been approved by the actual observations of himself and other officers of the St. Mary's, who, being there at a favorable season, were enabled to land at that island. Commodore Mervine, it will be remembered, pronounced as worthless whatever guano might be found on the island, in consequence of its being saturated by heavy rains.—Riermond Enquirer.

Union of the Rochester Democrat and Amer-ICAN.—The proprietors of the Rochester Demo-erat, whose establishment was recently destroyed erat, whose establishment was recently destroyed by fire, have purchased the Rochester American establishment, and hereafter the two papers will be published as one, under the title of Democrat & American, Mr. Dewey of the American remaining as one of the Editors. Mr. D. in his "parting word," sets forth briefly the considerations which have dictated this arrangement to be those of a besiness character and "the evident tendency of 'the times."

The St. Paul Minnesotian gives the details of the vote for Governor in that State, according to the latest advices, from which we learn that, on regular and proper returns, Ramsey receives 18,554, Sibley 17,738, and that there are returns 18,554, Sibley 17,738, and that there are returns from eight unorganized counties and one precioct giving 1,173 votes for Sibley, and not one for Ramsoy. If these are all accepted by the State canvassers as legal, they elect Sibley by 557 majority. The Minnesotian contends that Mr. Ramsey had a clear majority of at least 1,200 and perhaps 2,000 of all the legal votes, and that if none but correct returns be counted the Republicans have carried the whole State ticket, Legislature, and three members of Congress.

HIRED FIREMEN.

"A correspondent suggests that the 'auxiliary guard" be replaced by a corps of enlisted soldier-firemen, armed and equipped as are similar bodies in all the European cities. He says that a portion of them, when not on police duty, could work as sappers on the public reservations, and that government would then have such a force as was contemplated by the law of 1842, 'an auxiliary guard, or watch, for the protection of public and private property against incendiaries, and for the enforcement of the police regulations of the city of Washington.' — Union.
